Business Name	ChargeNet
Company Mission Statement	Our mission is simple: to keep you connected to what matters most by providing easy, affordable, and on-the-go power exactly when and where you need it.
Company Philosophy/ Values	We believe a dying phone battery shouldn't cause panic, ruin your day, or tie you to a wall outlet. We value convenience, reliability, and sustainability, prioritizing a shared, circular-economy model that reduces the electronic waste created by cheap, disposable personal batteries.
Company Vision	Our vision is to create a campus—and eventually a city—where no one has to worry about a dead battery ever again, becoming the most trusted short-term tech-amenity provider in the Quad Cities region.
Goals & Milestones	1. Secure the $4,500 first-place award from the Augustana Business Plan Competition to fully fund our 3-kiosk campus pilot program, completely debt-free. 2. Prove the model works by achieving 300+ active student users and a 95% successful battery return rate during the first six months. 3. Reinvest Year 1 profits to expand the network to 15 off-campus locations in the Quad Cities (e.g., coffee shops, transit hubs) by Year 2.
Target Market	Our primary users are people on the move: • Students pulling long study sessions in the library or Gerber Center. • Daily Commuters away from their home chargers for 8–10 hours a day. • Event-Goers draining their batteries taking photos at Augustana games or concerts.
Industry/ Competitors	Industry: The global "shared economy" and short-term tech-amenity market. Competitors: 1. Personal Power Banks: Expensive to buy, heavy to carry, and frequently forgotten or left uncharged at home. 2. Public Wall Outlets: Free, but completely eliminate mobility, forcing the user to sit on the floor or lose their study desk. 3. Regional Competitors: Currently, there is a lack of direct power bank vending competitors (like ChargettSpot) located within the Quad Cities college market.
Legal Structure/ Ownership	Structure: Sole Proprietorship initially during the Augustana campus pilot phase, transitioning to a Limited Liability Company (LLC) prior to regional off-campus expansion in Year 2 to protect personal assets.
	Ownership: 100% owned and operated by [Your Name].
